Architecture students in junior colleges and colleges throughout Southern California are now preparing their entries for competition in the third annual F. S. Wade Scholarship, according to George Rabbe, Southern California Gas Company division manager.

$1000 scholarship awarded by the Southern California and Southern Counties Gas Companies is made available to students who have completed one or more years in a college or junior college lo-ated in operating territories of the two gas utilities. In addition, students from Bakersfield and Long Beach are eligible this year.

WADE SCHOLARSHIP
Given for study in the school of architecture at the University of Southern California, the Wade scholarship is awarded for the best original design submitted as a solution to a specific design problem.

Rabbe announced that this year's problem, which calls for an original family kitchen area employing specified gas equipment, limits total area to 400 square feet and is to include a kitchen, indoor breakfast area, outdoor dining area, and utility area with space for a laundry and gas air conditioner.

Entries will be judged by a panel of four members of the American Institute of Architects and a representative of the gas companies. To be eligible for the contest, which closes April 12, 1961, students must meet enrollment requirements of the University Immediate opportunity for qualified applicants to obtain temporary employment in the Los Angeles Metropolitan area as referees for the California Unemployment Insurance Appeals Board was announced by Murray Love, manager of the Torrance Local Office of the Department of Employment.

The principal duty of a referee is to conduct quasi-judicial hearings and make decisions on appeals under the unemployment insurance and disability insurance taxing and benefit provisions of the California Unemployment Inurance Code.

Persons employed on a temporary basis will have the opportunity to obtain permanent employment through examination by the State Personnel Board. Applicants interested in permanent or temporary appointments as future openings occur throughout California may qualify through the same examination. This examination will be given on February 18, 1961, and the final filing date for the examination is January 27, 1961.

SALARIES HIGH

Beginning salary for both permanent and temporary appointees is $862 a month, with annual increases for four years to a maximum of $1048 a month. California residence is not a requirement for appointment. Basic requirements for qualifying are either five years of active practice of law or equivalent administrative hearing experience, or five years of full time experience in a responsible capacity in the field of labor or industrial relations, public employment security, or state labor law enforcement, two years of which must be in administrative or supervisory capacity.

Interested persons are urged by Manager Murray Love to contact the Torrance employment office immediately to obtain further particulars.
